It's been long overdue, but the release of uBar 0.9.4 implements many new features and bug fixes. For instance, menus now close automatically when the mouse is clicked outside of the bar. Also, the width can be specified, either as a percentage or in pixels. A notable addition is the in-line search. Instead of popping up a box, the search function appears directly inside the bar (for bottom left/center/right positions only). The best way to learn about the new features is to

Upcoming Features

Integration with JoomFish is still in the works, along with MooTools 1.2 compatibility. Bookmarking, translation, and other "default" buttons will also be added to future releases. Other features are under review, such as an in-line login form and possibly a new bar position: top.
